Subj: MISSION AND FUNCTIONS OF THE DEPARTMENTS OF NAVAL
SCIENCE (DPTNAVSCI)

Ref: (a) OPNAVNOTE 5450 Ser 09326/144447 of 6 Aug 1979 (NOTAL)
(b) OPNAVNOTE 5400 of 18 Jun 03, Standard Navy
Distribution List, Part 2

Encl: (1) Functions Assigned to the Departments of Naval
Science (DPTNAVSCI)

1. Purpose. To promulgate the functions to be performed by the Departments of Naval Science in support of the mission promulgated per reference (a).

2. Background. In compliance with the United States Code, Title 46, Chapters 27 and 31, and Public Law 96-453, "Maritime Education and Training Act of 1980," the DPTNAVSCI have been established at the United States Merchant Marine Academy and at selected maritime institutions to provide instruction in naval science and administer the Merchant Marine Reserve, United States Naval Reserve Midshipman Program.

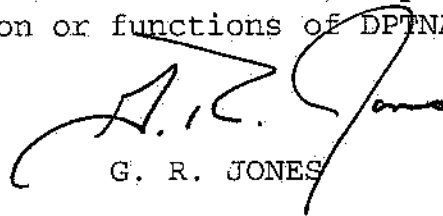

3. Mission. To provide instruction in naval science at maritime educational institutions to students eligible for commissions in the Naval Reserve. This instruction is to enable those officers to operate effectively with the Navy in time of peace, national emergency, or war; and to perform such other functions and tasks as directed by higher authority.

4. Status and Command Relationships. The DPTNAVSCI are shore activities in an active, fully operational status, each under an Officer in Charge under the command of the Commander, Naval Service Training Command (NSTC). The Officers-in-Charge (OIC) of the DPTNAVSCI are subject to the area coordination authority of the appropriate Regional Area Coordinator as assigned in section 3 of reference (b).
