San Diego Training Command Supports Toys for Tots

SAN DIEGO -- Training Support Center (TSC) San Diego is celebrating the holiday season supporting the Toys for Tots campaign by delivering unwrapped toys Dec. 14 that they collected.

"Every year I donate to Toys for Tots, but this year I thought it would be better to run the program for TSC and involve as many Sailors and civilian employees as possible." said Fire Controlman 1st Class Malinda Aguilar who initiated, organized, and drove the event.

During November and December the learning center's staff and students collected new, unwrapped toys, which will be distributed as Christmas gifts to needy children in the community.

According to the Marine's Toys for Tots Foundation website, the organization's goal is to deliver a new toy and a message of hope during the holiday season for all children in the community.

"It's important to take time to remember those who are less fortunate during the holiday season. The holidays are about celebrating with family and friends, but it's also about appreciating and giving back to others," said Engineman 2nd Class Nestorio Delgado who assisted Aguilar.

TSC San Diego includes three geographically separate service support centers that support 15 independent learning sites within the San Diego region. The command supports both surface Navy and aviation schools and averages 60,000 students per year.
