Some Education and Training websites and applications down Dec. 15

PENSACOLA, Fla. – As part of the Naval Education and Training Professional Development Technology Center's (NETPDTC) annual fire-suppression test for the Saufley Data Center, numerous Navy websites and applications will be offline the weekend of Dec. 15.

"This event has been scheduled on a weekend to minimize the impact to our customers," said David Schisler, director of operations and infrastructure for NETPDTC. "The fire suppression tests are crucial to ensuring that our systems and datacenter are as safe and reliable as possible. We will be bringing the sites back online as soon as practical after the tests."
